

Introduction

The Context

A team of consultants led by Taylor Young has been appointed by Hyndburn Council and Elevate to prepare a master plan, which will guide any future action, investment, and development for Woodnook and Burnley Road. The masterplan will provide a vision for regeneration for each area. The study areas are shown on the plans opposite.

Work to date

Today's consultation event, is a further update on the proposals for each area, following initial consultation events, which took place earlier this year.

The previous events presented a number of options which ranged from 'High' - to 'Low' levels of intervention for both Woodnook and Burnley Road, in terms of the redevelopment, remodelling and environmental improvements to each area.

The consultants have assessed these options for the future development of both Woodnook and Burnley Road, taking into account your previous comments and are now proposing preferred options.

Feedback from previous consultation

The work presented to you today reflects public comments received following the earlier consultation events, where people wished to see a significant to major level of intervention across both Woodnook and Burnley Road.

In Woodnook this will include a central area of redevelopment, with significant remodelling and environmental improvements, based mainly on option 3 from the consultation.

In Burnley Road this will include a series of targeted redevelopment areas, along with some key environmental projects, based on options 2 and 3.

The purpose of today's event

The purpose of today's event is to share with you the preferred masterplan option for each area.

Getting Involved.

Please take time to read the exhibition boards. It is important that you tell us what you think of our ideas so that we can take on board as many suggestions as possible. The Council will then make a decision on the preferred option.
